

Our purpose is to help students and families create goals to aid the student who is blind or visually impaired for life after graduating from high school.

Life After High School Workshop is:

- A chance to learn about the skills needed to live independently
- A safe zone to ask the difficult questions about the future
- An opportunity for families with children who are blind or visually impaired to network and share experiences
- A place to receive information specific to their child who is blind or visually impaired
- An opportunity to meet members of the Wisconsin Center for the Blind and Visually Impaired - Outreach team

Increase your understanding of:

- The types of supports available to students who are blind or visually impaired during and after high school
- What vision-related services are available to you, and how to access these services
- The importance of gaining paid work or volunteer experience, and ideas for finding these opportunities
- Career and college readiness information on developing transition based IEP goals
- Find out about your local Wisconsin Statewide Parent Educator Initiative (WSPEI ) and Division of Vocational Rehabilitation (DVR) coordinator

Transition starts before high school!

- What type of work do you plan to do?
- Will you pursue further training, college, or technical education?
- Where do you hope to live?
